Sharing Singapore's VTE Expertise

4 The development of a future based on skills mastery and lifelong learning is clearly on Singapore's national agenda. This year's Conference will further the message by The SkillsFuture Council, chaired by Deputy Prime Minister Tharman Shanmugaratnam, and underline the importance of creating an integrated system for all to acquire or deepen skills and encourage lifelong learning.

5 TVET plays a significant role in shaping the economic and social development of Singapore, given that more than 60 per cent of our students are in post-secondary education in TVET. The second day of TVET Conference will be dedicated to a series of thematic sessions focusing on Singapore's expertise in VTE. Conducted by various local TVET institutions, speakers will share insights on topics ranging from governance, planning, partnerships, and curriculum to pedagogy. Learning will be deepened through an Executive Immersion Programme (EIP), which allows participants to visit Lifelong Learning Institute, Nanyang Polytechnic (NYP), Ngee Ann Polytechnic (NP), Republic Polytechnic (RP), Singapore Polytechnic (SP) and Temasek Polytechnic (TP), to witness how a practice-oriented curriculum is carried out.

Shaping the Global Skills Landscape

6 TVET 2015 seeks to share Singapore's learning and provide an opportunity for participants to exchange challenges, ideas and perspectives in coping with the future economic and social needs.

7 Said Mr Bruce Poh, Director & CEO, ITE and Advisor, TVET 2015, "In the face of higher global competition and technological change, the challenges of upskilling the workforce through TVET is a real one. This Conference provides a timely platform for TVET policy makers and practitioners to learn from one another. By engaging in active dialogue, we hope TVET leaders and practitioners will be able to see TVET through different lenses. We also hope that countries, institutions and individuals will be inspired to find new and innovative ways to meet future challenges in TVET to enhance social mobility and sustainable outcomes for their beneficiaries and citizens."

8 Mr Goh Geok Khim, Chairman, Temasek Foundation, the Sponsor Organisation for TVET 2015, said, "Supporting our belief in building human and social development, Temasek Foundation has funded some 61 TVET programmes all across Asia. Through this conference, we hope to bring together like-minded TVET leaders and professionals to share ideas, discuss challenges, and learn from each other to enhance best practices in TVET. With that in mind, I hope that the participants will bring home ideas that are applicable to the TVET systems in their home countries and improve the lives of their communities."

9 This is the second Singapore International Technical and Vocational Education and Training (TVET) Conference funded by Temasek Foundation. The first Conference took place in Singapore from 6 - 9 November 2012.
